CHRISTMAS DANCE FRIDAY

Don Woodington to Pilot Football Team

New Captain Elected at Football Banquet Last Friday
Night at the Home of Erma Brown

Donald Woodington, freshman, will captain next year's varsity football squad as a result of the election held at the first annual football dinner last Friday night.

Dinner, the first affair of S. A. college ever honoring an athletic team, was planned and served by the A. W. S., at the home of Miss Erma Brown, Orange. Colorful decorations of cotton-candy, mistletoe and scarlet candles made it a decidedly holiday event. The menu which met with much favor included such delicacies as baked ham, candied sweet potatoes, per-

Camp Baldy Trip Set For January 7

College Tradition to be Carried Out in Annual Frolic

True to tradition, the Santa Ana college students are going to take a trip to Baldy in January immediately after Christmas vacation. According to Theodora Mueller, social commissioner, tentative plans have already been made.

The date is set for January 7. All students will meet at the college and start for Baldy at 8:30 a. m. The women are going to supply the "eats" and transportation will be furnished by private cars.

Gerald Twist Goes To Stanford Meet

Gerald Twist, president of the student body, attended the California state student body president's convention last Saturday, Dec. 10, held at Stanford university.

The purpose of the convention was to discuss the problems of state and junior colleges. Sixteen institutions were represented.

The meeting opened with a speech by President Wilbur of Stanford. He spoke on the education value of a junior college. Prof. Roth also spoke during the morning session.

Asilomar "Y" Meet Dec. 26

Many students in Santa Ana college are looking forward to the Asilomar "Y" conference which opens on the afternoon of December 26. During the week nationally known thinkers and speakers will lead these potential leaders in discussion of the life problems and responsibilities devolving upon them.

Kirby Page, writer and lecturer, Stewart MacInnair, traveler, lecturer, and preacher, David Starr Jordan, president emeritus of Stanford university, Charles Rugh, professor at University of California, Allen Hunter and J. Stitt Wilson, who addressed the college student body last year, are among those on the program.

Asilomar, located at one of California's beauty spots along a rough and rocky coast, is a yearly mecca for student leaders in western colleges and universities.

Hazel Smith Wins Don Song Contest

Mary Bruner and Jane Stewart Also Commended

Hazel Smith is the prize winner of the Don song contest prize, a five dollar gold piece, which will be presented to her by student body president, Gerald Twist at today's assembly.

Both words and music were entirely original. Mary Bruner's song second in the contest. A great many people considered hers the best.

Jane Stewart also deserves credit for her work in writing words for the "Toreador Song" from "Carmen".

Stationery Sale Is Great Success

Approximately twenty-seven dollars worth of Don stationery has been sold. According to Adelaide Mueller, the sale was very successful.

Ten sheets of crested paper, and ten envelopes and ten plain envelopes were sold for thirty cents. There is still some stationery left which may be secured from Adelaide Mueller.

Merry Christmas

"They're a kind o' feel in the air, to me,

When the Chri'mus-time set in,
That's about as much of a mystery

As ever I've run ag'in' it!"
Such a feeling as expressed in the homely words of Riley, has never failed to find a response in the heart of man.

Standing on the threshold of a New Year, we usher in the King of all the Seasons—Christmas. Merrily he comes and merrily he goes; a time of cheer and fellowship, that holds within its heartiness a sad-sweet something that will always remain a mystery.

Years ago heaven brought its star to the manger of the Christ child, and man brought his gifts of gold and myrrh. Today, youth salutes this holiday of love with faith and joy in living.

So once again we give out sincere greetings at the Christmas time, "God bless you, merry gentlemen."

Santa Ana J. C. To Have New Campus

Plans for a new Santa Ana junior college are now being developed since the abandonment of the county college idea at the last meeting of the board of education.

This action is accounted for partly because of the growing crowded condition of having the high school and junior college occupy the same buildings, and because of the possibility of having to develop the 6-4-4 plan later. The latter would prove impossible if the county college plan were used.

The 6-4-4 plan is one which limits grammar schools to six years, the next four years being included in the high school, and the remaining four in a junior college—senior high school. This would place the high school juniors and seniors on the same campus with the junior college students.

A site for the new junior college buildings will probably not be selected for some time after the educational survey and investigation is made.

Press Club Plans Trip to Mountains

"Let's go to the snow," was the cry of the Press club members last Monday, when plans were made for a week end party at Forest Home.

The club members will leave Sunday morning for a day in the snowfields.

Two cabins have been secured. Katherine Best, in charge of eats, promises "Lots of 'em."

Each student going is urged to bring his own eating utensils and a blanket. Don't forget. Sunday morning.

Plans For Date Day Have Been Given up

No date day!

Popular student criticism demands that there be no date day for the purpose of dating students for the Christmas dance at Orange. The plan started jointly by the Y. W. and Y. M. will not be acted upon, according to Melvin Harter, president of the Y. M.

Dating depends on the boys and since it did not meet with their approval plans have been abandoned.

The opinion is that students will date or will not date according to their own wishes.

Men Guests Y.W. Today

Men! A tea is being given in your honor this afternoon by the Y. W. in the hut. "It is not to be a pink, soft, feminine affair," says Mydas Capps, president of the Y. W.

Men of the faculty and their wives are also invited.

Mary Bruner, program chairman, is featuring several musical numbers on the program, which will consist of solos by Hazel Smith, Charlotte Brown, and Charles Hans, violin duets and solos by Jane Stewart and Irene O'Brien, the college trio, composed of William Fox, Jane Stewart, and Eber Plaus, and violin solos by Pauline Thompson. Ruby Gregg will give some readings and Josephine Ball will offer piano selections.

Tea will be poured by Miss Whiting and Miss Dickson. They will be assisted in serving by the Y. W. women.

Dean McKee Fisk Leaves For East

Dean to Visit Junior Colleges
Of East. Will Return Jan. 4

McKee Fisk, dean and educational counselor of the Dons, left for Chicago Thursday, December 8. The major purpose of his journey is to visit the mid-western and eastern junior colleges.

He plans to take particular note of the administrative departments of those institutions and of the student curriculum. Because of his social interest in the student body, he is expected to return with new ideas for the Dons' students activities.

Hello Day Proves Spirit of College

Hello Day, held last Wednesday, was a success from a financial as well as a beneficial point of view. The money taken in on the sale of the cards amounted to six dollars, according to Catherine Best.

The students entered into the spirit of the day in a manner that showed they were willing to cooperate with the student body leaders in attempting to overcome the difficulties in the college.

Only two more days before the Dons of Santa Ana college will frolic at their annual Christmas dance to be held next Friday, December 14, at the Orange Women's Club house, 121 South Center Street. The dance is scheduled for 9 P. M. sharp.

Program dancing will be the main feature of the evening and several specialty dances will be given. There will be Christmas favors and punch for everybody. Santa Claus may be here to help partake in the good time. Theodora Mueller promises an exceptionally good orchestra.

Theodora Mueller is general chair-lead. Helen Drake is in charge of the dance. Helen Drake is in charge of favors. Mary Jane Owens will arrange decorations. Dick Swert is expected to provide a good orchestra. Eula May Barker will serve and Catherine Best promises an interesting program.

Xmas Program For Assembly

Hazel Smith to be Presented With Gold Piece for Prize Song

Assembly program today under direction of student president, Gerald Twist will be a Christmas entertainment.

The college glee club is scheduled to sing Yuletide carols. Robert Brown, well-known to junior college audiences, will sing several selections. Violin and vocal solos will complete the musical section. Julia Bingham will give several Christmas readings.

The five dollar gold piece, donated by the Don for the prize song, will be presented to Hazel Smith by the student president.

El Toro Dedication Kept Dark Secret

Mysterious dedication of the El Toro edition of the Don will not be revealed until January 4, 1928, according to Eleanor Turner, in charge of the special edition.

Extra copies will be taken from the press so that every student may have a copy. Every student body ticket demands a copy, but those students without tickets may buy a paper for five cents.

Miss Turner states that the staff is working hard to make the publication a success. Original contributions are being submitted, and the students are further asked to contribute freely.

The Ins and Outs of It

Who hasn't heard the story of the country preacher who dropped fifty cents in the collection box on entering the church? After service he went back to the collection box to get his pay. Lo and behold! There lay the self-same fifty cent piece—and that only! Then the little minister's son piped up, "Daddy, why didn't you put more in the box? If you'd put more into it, you would get more out of it."

So it is with the DON. The more you put into it, the more you get out of it. Those students who write and work for the DON have a much keener appreciation of the paper when it comes out because they know something about the inside story of the articles printed.

A school newspaper is very beneficial in that it teaches everyone affiliated with it very much about newspapers in the world. It also awakens interest in what is happening around the school.

There is an immense and peculiar satisfaction in writing for print. If you have never tried, it you cannot have experienced the indescribable influence which lures so many into the newspaper field.

Now, especially, when the DON needs and appreciates help from the students, is the time to taste this pleasure. Just keep this in mind:

Here Are The Words!

Our college now has a real snappy school song, the one that Hazel Smith wrote and won the song contest with.

Here are the words.
Junior College Varsity! We will cheer you once again.
You have proved by your deeds in time of need—
That you're true Junior College men.
Yard by yard we'll fight our way and gallantly take our stand.
Be it touchdown or goal, we're never in the hole
And we cheer the best in the land.
Who cheers? We do!

CHORUS—
Hail to the purple and white; hail to our warriors brave.
Who staunchly fight for colors bright
Their honoring to save.
Fight for Santa Ana; fight on to victory;
When the game is done, back home we'll run.
All the glory's for our J. C.

RAH! RAH!
Students are advised to cut this out and paste it in their notebooks.

Y. W. C. A. Guests
At Fullerton

Santa Ana Y. W. C. A. members were graciously entertained by the Fullerton Y. W. C. A., Tuesday evening, December 6, at a supper.

Programs, in the form of Christmas bells, were distributed among the women. Supper was served at 6:30 o'clock. Tall tapering candles served as the only light for the repast.

Virginia Dull, president of the Fullerton Y. W., welcomed the Santa Ana women after which Mydas Capps, president of the local Y. W., replied.

BOOKS FOR GIFTS

Give friends for Christmas? And why not? Friendly books make the best of delightful gifts for a holiday season. Among the most suitable of these are the following, some of which are recommended by Mrs. Robert Northcross.

Good fiction includes "Jalna" by Mazo de la Roche, "Death Comes for the Archbishop" by Willa Cather, "Jeremy at Craile" by Hugh Walpole, and "California" by Stewart Edward White.

The best recent poetry includes "Tristram" by E. A. Robinson, "The King's Henchmen" by Edna St. Vincent Millay, "Tristan and Isent" by John Macfield, and books of verse by A. A. Milne, which are children's poems that older folks would enjoy.

"Trader Horn" and anything that has been written by William Beebe are excellent non-fiction gifts.

Subscriptions to magazines are always appreciated by periodical readers. Scribners, Harpers, and The Atlantic are of literary merit; Century contains both literature and general information; The Forum is a controversial magazine that most men would especially enjoy; and Bookman is of literary value.

BACHELOR BLEATS

Poor handwriting and incorrect spelling are faults not confined to the poor and ill-educated, asserts Will West in Liberty. "As for styles of writing, I'd say that bad handwriting, like Chanel blue and reptile leathers, is very good this year. The better and financial circumstances of the writer, the worse, it seems, is the scrawl."

"Spelling—let's be kind," the writer continues, "but even the grand dame stoops to 'payed for paid.' Arcities are almost invariably arties, while for leggings the more Chaucerian leggings is usual. With hats and shoes and similar monosyllables most women do well but sequins become sequences, and suede is reproduced as swede."

Rastus has been away to college for a couple of years, and had just returned to nigger town and was walking down the street and met Sam.

"Hello Rastus, where you all been the last two years?"

"Why, I've been to college."

"What you all takin'?"

"I've going to be an orator."

"Sam don't you know what an orator am?"

"Well, Sam, I've will try and explain to you. If you go up to an ordinary man and asks him what two and two is, he will say four, if you asks an orator what two and two is, he will say, "In the course of human events when it becomes necessary to add the numeral of the second denomination to the figure two, I've say unto you, and without the fear of contradiction, that the sum will invariably be four. That is an orator."

Coeds to be Feted
Christmas

According to a scheduled meeting of the W. A. A. board held December 13, plans were made for a social gathering of former Santa Ana college coeds and women of the student body. Tentative plans decided that a party will be held sometime during the first week in January.

A SYRIAN CHRISTMAS

The mention of Christmas brings to your mind naturally enough, a scene of holly wreaths, of gaily decorated houses and lighted Christmas trees. But you see all this in an American setting, with people of American customs and dress, and houses of occidental design. If you are to get a true picture of a Christmas in Syria you will have to change your conception of the local setting.

In the first place, the houses are typically Oriental, flat roofs, brick, rock or mud-plastered walls, and no fine windows. Only in the homes of the rich will you find windows. The streets are narrow, and the people who fill the streets, both men and women are dressed in the long, flowing garments of the Orient. The men are bearded, and many of the women are veiled.

The preparations for the holidays are much the same as we have here, but different in that there is no inter-changing of gifts. In a private household the servants may get a little "bakshesh" but that is as far as the giving goes. Sweetmeats, sweetcakes and coffee are prepared in abundance. Some of their most delicious preparations are candied almonds, candied orange blossoms, and Turkish delight. The coffee is roasted and ground as fine as it is possible.

It is the custom during the holiday week to visit as many people as possible. The people go in groups, either wholly men or women. One group will visit during both morning and afternoon, and perhaps the other will remain at their homes and receive guests.

When visiting, there is an elaborate procedure that must be followed. On first going to a house, one must rap on the outside gate, for each house is surrounded by a wall. A servant then opens the gate and the visitor enters into the yard. From there he goes where he will, until the parlor is found. That is not as hard a task as you might suppose, for the parlor is always the room furthest from the entrance.

As one enters, everybody rises, greetings are given, and then all seat themselves. After talking for a while with the guests, the hostess gives a sign and the servant enters with a tray on which are the sweetmeats or other delicacies, and invariably the cup of coffee. The coffee is very black and strong and served in tiny cups that hold only two tablespoonfuls. An ordinary guest is served by the servant, but if the hostess wishes to honor you, or if she considers you a most worthy guest, she herself arises and serves you while the servant holds the tray.

Although the Syrians have no Christmas carols as we have, they do not lack music. The Fellahien, tribe of people who live in the mountains back from the sea-coast, come down and provide the music for the merrymaking. This music is usually played by two men, one with a small shrill, reed instrument, corresponding somewhat to a fife, but held in a forward position like a clarinet. The other with a drum.

Although a Syrian Christmas is not quite like one in American, the same spirit fills the air. Everyone makes merry and joins in the feasting until it is against time to go back to work, with only the memories of the happy times and the great feasts remaining.

Ass'n. News

Pasadena, Calif., Dec. (A. N. S.)—Word was received yesterday by the Junior College Times via special cablegram from Honolulu, T. H., that the Pirate eleven had triumphed over St. Louis College by a 13-7 score in the inter-sectional game played in the Honolulu stadium Saturday before a crowd of 10,000. According to the cable, the Pasadena junior college men were handicapped by the weather.

However, the trick plays and passes of the Pirates bewildered the Saints and gained a victory for Pasadena, despite this handicap. "Slick" Stocks played a wonderful game for the Pirates, making big gains through the Saints line and throwing many passes to completion.

Fullerton, Calif., Dec. 2 (A. N. S.)—The first annual conference of the Intercollegiate Fellowship of Creative Art will be held at Fullerton district junior college Wednesday, December 14, beginning at 10.00 A. M. Allen Robertson, president of the English club of Fullerton junior college, is in charge of general arrangements.

Constitutions of this new organization have been sent out to nearly all of the junior colleges of Southern California, and the general outline of the work of the fellowship was described by Mr. R. W. Borst at the fall conference of junior colleges of Southern California.

The conspicuous feature of this fellowship is its plan to publish a book of inter-collegiate verse in the spring of 1928, and all junior colleges interested are hereby invited to send at least one delegate to the conference.

Compton, December 8, (A. N. S.)—Compton junior college cage squad held its first work out, Monday. Coach Pine was greeted with some twenty-five athletes, including a number of high class basketballers.

Prominent among these are Burris and Burke, star guards of the Compton high's championship team of '25; Art Landell, Katz, Fesler and Bibes are other shining players to report.

It is doubtful whether "Goldie" Holmes, captain and forward of Compton's championship team, will be able to play this year, due to a broken leg received in football.

Compton, December 8, (A. N. S.)—Compton junior college has officially adopted the nickname of Tartars. The name of Tartars has an interesting origin. They were a

Volleyball Teams For Women Started

Women's volleyball season opened for college Donas, Monday December 5. Plans for the schedule of this sport will be carried out in a fashion similar to those of the past basketball games.

A volleyball team requires six members, and as Mrs. Foote hopes to have at least four teams, all college women are invited to participate in the fun. If enough girls turn out, inter-team games will be contests.

The women listed as having turned out for practice are fifteen in number. More are expected. Those reporting Monday night were Charlotte Browne, Mary Bruner, Marion Bruner, Josephine Ball, Margaret Glenn, Ruby Gray, Rowena Newcomb, Helen O'Brien, Ana Pickering, Alice Prather, Helen Reynolds, Helen Schoenberg, Dorothy Vincent, and Jane Stewart.

Coach Bill Cook gave a short personal talk to his men. Music and games were enjoyed after the dinner.

Places at the table were laid for Coach Cook, President D. K. people who lived out in the far end of Asia near the Gobi desert. Until about 1202 they were under the Chinese rule, but they overcame this government and built up a vast empire of their own.

The real basis of their power was in their unity. They never quarreled among themselves, or questioned their leader and had absolute faith in him.

This name takes the place of Pumas which was adopted at the beginning of the year.

Sport Shorts

College yell leaders are backing a movement for rooters caps. They will receive little student support as the football season is over.

The question before the student body at present is "How will students respond to basketball season?" It is hoped they will show a little enthusiasm, but not to the point of tearing up the town.

College men agree with the writer of student opinion that women put things over right. They have presented the school with blankets as evidence.

It has come to our attention that some of the fellows are greatly in favor of a basketball game between the frosh and the sophs. It seems to be the custom here for two teams to be formed from the classes and to fight it out on the court. Personally we think the idea is pretty good, and it is with this in mind that we are attempting to give the matter sufficient publicity to arouse a little enthusiasm.

Our informants want it understood that members of this season's basketball team are not eligible for the interclass team, but that all others may come and join the dance. The idea is that they want to make it as fair a game as possible, hence the exclusion of so-called professionals.

There are undoubtedly a lot of good basketball players in this school, many of whom have not the time to go out for the team. This will provide an outlet for them, as well as provide a lot of fun for the students here who are interested in basketball. What's more, it will provide news, and it's the Sporting Ed's favorite cry that there is no news now that football is over. So you see, its mutually to our credit to put this thing over. You have the fun of seeing the game if not playing in it, we get the news; and you benefit again by reading about it in the next issue of the paper.

Jaysee Team Swamps High School Quintet

Friday afternoon the Don basketball quintet tangled with the high school's hopes. The game was merely a practice tilt, but it was plenty hot inasmuch as some of our men like to tell the high school chaps where to get off. The final score as near as could be determined was about 43 to 20. Every fellow got a chance to play so you may see that one good team did not do all the work, but that some of the less experienced men did their part to win the game.

Mr. Scott has arranged several practice tilts for his team in order to give every man a chance to play. He does not intend to cut his squad but wants to keep as many playing as is possible believing that a team is only as strong as its substitutes.

We note that a new schedule for basketball practice has gone into effect, and we find it very much to the credit of the men going out for the team that they are willing to give up some of their nights to practice. Night practice means an entirely different thing from afternoon practice. In many cases the boys have to make a special trip to Santa Ana to practice rather than make a long jaunt home, then back again. Again we say that we think it splendid of the fellows.

Don Varisty Basketball Squad Bows to Last Year's All-stars

Last Wednesday a heterogeneous quintet of old grads came, saw, and conquered Coach Walter Scott's varsity basketball team.

From the very first whistle the game was fast and furious. Youel, Edgar, and White were outstanding scorers for the J. C., while Frank Labrucherie, a last year's J. C. star, was a consistent point getter for the heterogenians.

Due to the large number of candidates trying out for basketball this year, Coach Scott was able to put an entirely new team on the floor each quarter. From an interview it was learned that he is very well satisfied with the showing his men made in their first game.

"Although both team played good basketball, the heterogenians were able to tally a higher score than the J. C. men. The game ended with the score standing 24-20 in favor of the visitors.
